

Transforming the East Midlands

East Midlands Development Agency (emda) works with public, private and voluntary sector partners to deliver innovative regeneration solutions that will bring economic benefits to people living and working in the region.

Our investment in schemes such as the Roundhouse at Pride Park - which provided stunning new facilities for Derby College - is helping to breathe new life into old buildings and provide young people with a dynamic learning environment to boost the skills of the region's future workforce.

That's why we're the catalyst for change in the East Midlands
