

Reading has an exciting and aspirational vision of its future.

As a leading, independent Planning and Design consultancy established over 70 years ago in Reading, it's not surprising that we are involved in helping shape and deliver this vision for our public and private sector clients.

If you have property interests or wish to become involved in the Reading vision and you need a planning and design consultancy that prides itself in offering valuable and consistently successful strategic town planning advice, innovative yet deliverable designs, and efficient and timely coordination of the planning and delivery process, then please feel free to contact our Senior Partner, Ian Tant, to discuss how we might be able to help you.
