

We're helping to shape Reading's future

As the UK's largest independent planning and design consultancy, Barton Willmore prides itself in consistently delivering successful town planning advice and innovative yet achievable designs. Established some 75 years ago, we have successfully delivered many key projects throughout the region and built up a strong national and international reputation, from our head office here in the town.

We now look forward to working with you in shaping the town over the next 75 years!
